Hawaii Fi-Do Service Dogs place first Labradoodle facility dog

Story submitted by Susan Luehrs

Vita, whose name means "Life", is the first certified Labradoodle facility dog in the nation. She is trained by Hawaii Fi-Do Service Dogs and will be placed at Hale Ku'ike, a memory care Residential Community in Nuuanu.

Vita has spent several months visiting this facility and getting to know everyone. This loving environment will be her home and her daily job is to assist and interact with the residents, their families and staff by offering companionship, free paws, hugs, daily exercise, grooming, smiles and unconditional love to be spread daily to all in need.

This breed is from Australian stock which guarantees of non-shedding and non-allergenic.
